

Name _____

A Sea of Sources

Not all Web sites give all the facts. Some are biased. They present only one point of view. Other Web sites include a mix of facts, opinions, and advertisements. Can you figure out which ones you can trust? Study the crustacean search results below. Then answer the questions.

Gurgle Dive right into an ocean of information.

Shelly's Crustacean Page
Get the hard facts on why crustaceans are the coolest sea creatures by looking at my travel pix of crabs, lobsters, shrimps, and crayfish. Segmented bodies rock!
www.shellyshell.com

Census of Marine Life
A worldwide network of experts spent 10 years researching the past, present, and future of marine life. www.coml.org

The Krusty Krab
Top chefs cook with crustaceans! Lobster and crab recipes—on the cheap. Oh, barnacles!
www.cookingwithcrustaceans.com

Monterey Bay Aquarium, California
The Monterey Bay Aquarium in Monterey, California, offers visitors nearly 200 award-winning marine life galleries and exhibits. Explore our Web site.
www.montereybayaquarium.org

1. Which link would you use if you wanted to find out where to visit marine life exhibits?
_____
2. Which Web site would you use to learn how many crustaceans were found by researchers?
_____
3. Which Web site is most likely written by someone biased about crustaceans?
_____
4. Which Web site would you use if you wanted to learn how to prepare a dish with crab?
_____

ANSWERS

A Sea of Sources

1. Monterey Bay Aquarium, California
2. Census of Marine Life
3. Shelly's Crustacean Page
4. The Krusty Krab